BEING PARENTS, EARTHLY GUIDES

Introduction

How can we be wise and loving earthly guides for the souls we have welcomed?

What is the difference between a "therapeutic no" and simple forbidding?

How do we balance firmness and softness in raising our children?

"Being Parents, Earthly Guides" offers a celestial perspective on the role of parents.

Through the words of our beloved Masters, we discover that in celestial terms there are no "parents" but "Earthly Guides"—incarnated spirits who have chosen to accompany other souls on their path of evolution.

This text explores the sacredness of the parent-child bond as a "unique, independent, and eternal" relationship, where every family dynamic becomes an opportunity for reciprocal growth. The Guides show us how to use our belief, our thoughts, and our energy for the maximum well-being of the welcomed souls, reminding us that we are co-creators with the Father.

Topics covered: the role of Earthly Guides, the balance between firmness and softness, managing modern educational challenges (such as technology and games), the difference between "therapeutic no" and prohibition, the power of positive visualization, acceptance of each spirit's celestial program.

A text for parents seeking spiritual guidance in raising their children, transforming every educational challenge into an opportunity for evolution for the entire family.

Note on terminology:

Throughout this text, the word “hour” is used to indicate a sacred moment or spiritually significant time, rather than a literal hour. "Celestial Belongings" refers to kindred celestial souls, one's soul family.

The Role of Earthly Guides

My dearest brothers and sisters, I bring you in this hour the word of our dear sister and Master Lihà. Ximènes

My dearest ones, I arrive in this hour to speak to you about the role of Earthly Guides.

In celestial terms we do not use the word parents but rather Earthly Guides.

If you observe the relationship existing between us Celestial Guides and you incarnated spirits, you will be able to understand how the relationship between you and the souls you have welcomed is profoundly unique, independent, and eternal at the same time.

We are beside you always in every hour. We listen to you, we love you unconditionally, we guide you, we respect your going, we intervene even without your knowledge in particularly difficult and demanding hours, we pay continuous attention.

When one is a guide on earth, one carries with oneself the capacity to guide spiritually and physically. Your Spirit has the capacity to love exactly as we love you in every hour.

On the other side, your personality, your humanity, carries with it gifts and challenges in the relationship with those whom you have, in the hour that was, decided to welcome and guide. You are exactly what your children need for their program and in turn your children are exactly what you need for your program, where by program I mean the path decided in the hour that was by your spirits with full awareness of the final destination.

With this, I would not want you to think that there is no inner work, there is no growth. The inner work is incessant and truly demanding, because the bond is unique, independent, and eternal.

The dynamics that arise between the Guides on earth and the welcomed souls are profoundly healthy. They bring to light what needs to be recognized and let go.

Naturally the earth age of the welcomed souls is very important in understanding the energetic dynamics of the present hour. Do not fight an energy that is trying to find its own form, but certainly guide it and do not be afraid to say no and do not be afraid to say yes.

The one before you is going through an hour of transition and asks for, wants, needs your earthly guidance, even if externally it might seem exactly the opposite.

Love is an infinite force and contains within itself many energetic expressions: joy, happiness, innocence, peace, compassion, realization. It contains within itself softness, but also, let us never forget it, the strength of the Father who guides with holy detachment, clarity of thought, and a total vision of the well-being of those before us.

Look back at your experience. How many times as adults have you said to yourselves: if my father or my mother had said or done... differently. And often there is a nostalgia for therapeutic nos said from the heart and for therapeutic yeses said from the heart.

Guide with strength and softness. Learn to direct these two energies. It is not by chance that Earthly Guides are Mother and Father.

As Earthly Guides you are invited in every hour to use your belief for the maximum well-being of those you have welcomed. Your belief, your thoughts, your energy are instruments of an importance beyond human understanding. We are co-creators with the Father. Our intention moves energy in the direction we decide.

Through breath we bring earth and Heaven together. Our energetic powers are truly unlimited.

For this reason visualizing the welcomed souls happy, serene, centered, in good health, in short surrounded by loving and positive energy, is a great gift you give to yourselves and to your children.

The opposite is also true. If you put your belief in fear and in dramatic and negative visualizations, your intention will reinforce that energetic field.

Naturally we always keep in mind the earthly wave that represents the healing process of every incarnated Spirit. The same compassion that is asked of us to offer to our children is asked of us first of all to offer to ourselves.

The challenge of the healing process will bring up feelings that we will have to look at in order to be able to let them go and this often happens when the wave begins to descend. In that hour let us love ourselves more than ever and let us remember to do the same thing when the welcomed souls are in the same phase of the earthly wave.

Before concluding our meeting, I would like to specify that just as we are not given to interfere with your celestial program, you are also not given to interfere with the celestial program of the spirits you have welcomed.

Listen well: here we are talking about the choices made by each Spirit before incarnating. We like you are guides and as such we have the responsibility to act on all levels at our disposal: mental, physical, emotional, and spiritual. But we are not given to act on the center, on the program, and this brings only joy and serenity, as what a spirit chooses before incarnating is for its maximum good and deep realization.

What each of you has profoundly chosen to experience during this life is a gift for yourselves. This clarification is simply a celestial Truth, a universal law.

Before concluding I would like to invite you never to act, or decide, when you feel invaded by panic or fear. Stop, breathe, wait the necessary time to find calm and center, and then tune in with your Spirit. Listen and you will see that everything will be clear.

With so much love.

Lihà

The Masters

Dear sister, our dearest brother is a wonderful Spirit. This is his truth. Nothing and no one can change it. Life on Gaia brings the perfect circumstances for the evolution of everyone. His energetic field is in formation. It is taking shape and therefore the personality is "experimenting" with the instruments, the energies available. He tries different "clothes."

In this moment he is trying, experimenting, with the energy of fire, of NO, of I do as I say. He is trying to guide, to take his life in hand.

It is wise to let him do it, while continuing to watch carefully and accompanying him.

Be serene, my sister, let this river flow. Be the banks that contain it with love and firmness. Continue to seek contact, to explain, to lighten. Our brother listens and absorbs.

Cecilia

I don't know what to do with the Internet, war games, the computer. I am afraid that all these images/worlds he lives in are "fuel on the fire," creating/reinforcing the belief that "the strongest or the most aggressive wins."

The Masters

This generation is living situations different from those of your generation. It is a conscious choice of the Spirit before descending. This hour in this dimension with these challenges was chosen.

The work of the parent is to watch with attention, to regulate the entry, the access to these sources. In this way you prepare the soul entrusted to you for what will be. The encounter with many of the situations lived virtually will be inevitable: the clash, the war (whether between two individuals or nations).

Do not withdraw, be there, accompany, talk, explain. It will be an opportunity for you as well.

Create the situations so that this opportunity for dialogue can manifest. Start a conversation.

Prohibition often becomes a shortcut for not being there, for not being present, for distancing oneself. It is a postponement.

If the negative enters, in the form of a war game for example, it is an opportunity to study it, observe it and observe the results together. The important thing is presence, confrontation, not abandonment to oneself.

Regulate the flow if you perceive it as excessive, with firmness and constancy (an opportunity for you to practice in the use of these energies).

Observe what the universe proposes to you at home. It is the perfect situation for you. The most immediate, the closest opportunity. Do not flee from it. Be there. It brings gifts of growth for you as well.

Maintain attention alive, joy, faith, commitment (not effort). These are energies that nourish you and make you grow. Energies that nourish the positive pleasure of attention, of discernment, of containing with love, of being there.

Being Father and Mother is a door of access into the human soul, one's own and that of one's children. A choice that brings this daily gift. The opportunity to observe and work with the child soul, growing, in constant evolution, in search of its identity. It is, on a smaller scale, like being Father and Mother of humanity. There is the opportunity to observe, intuit, give, receive, flow, and much more.

The family is in truth a small universe or solar system, whichever you prefer. Be serene and regulate, contain, explain. Put, in the relationship with your children, the same passion, commitment and healthy holy detachment and discernment that you would put in the Mission, because they are part of your Mission. They are, in truth, the part of the Mission that is already here, that has already presented itself.

You have welcomed wonderful spirits. Look beyond appearance, beyond the various ages. Be the mirror, for them, of what they truly are. Be their memory of who they truly are. Make sure they read it in your eyes, breathe it in your heart and hear it in your words. Be firm in awareness and in guidance. Love, love, regulate and love again. Love is commitment.

Cecilia

I would like to go deeper into "forbidding." What is the difference between the "therapeutic no" and the "forbidding" you are talking about?

The difference is in the intention. The therapeutic no has an intention of guidance, of commitment. It arises from intuition, from the deep, from knowing what is necessary for the well-being of the soul in question. The "forbidding" I am talking about is born from the fear of committing, from the desire to "cut it short" so to speak. It can provoke rebellion. It crushes.

Remember that we are with you in every instant.

With so much love.

The Arrival on Gaia

The arrival on Gaia is not birth as you understand it, but it is the exact moment when the welcoming soul, the mother, perceives the entry of the new soul into herself. Almost no earthly creature manages to grasp this wonderful instant anymore, but those who are awakened can feel it with extreme simplicity. It is the contact of the most subtle and refined energetic thread there is, which keeps two souls belonging to completely different dimensions connected in an indefinable hour. Earthly words cannot explain it.
